that period.

POETRY.

From the New London Democrat.

You are not what you used to be.

You are not what you used to be;
I miss the gentle tone,
The heart that once was frank and free,
Now cold and careless grown.
You are not what you used to be,
Estrangement veils thee now;
As shadows flit across the sea—
A cloud hangs o'er thy brow.
You are not what you used to be,
Distrustful words, and cold,
Have chilled the hour, in memory—
When first your love you told.

O love how brief a thing you are,
Of days that used to be;
When first your faithless vows, I heard,
Beneath the elm wood tree.

My heart is breaking in its shrine,
For one sweet word from thee;
As flowers in costly vases pine,
The sun light glad to see.

Though other eyes for thee may shine,
And softer voices meet,
No heart shall truer prove than mine,
No truer welcome greet.

The boughs send forth a wailing moan
Beneath the elm-wood tree—
I count the moon lit hours alone,
Since thou art lost to me.

HENRY LESLIE.

The young wife sat alone in her pleasant chamber, and her husband's last letter was in her hand. The paper looked soiled and worn, and the hand-writing was nearly illegible; they might well appear thus, for that letter had been carried in Margaret's bosom, and read amid blinding tears, until every word was engraved on her heart.
It was many long months since Henry Leslie departed, to engage in a profitable business, and prepare for the migration of his family to a distant land, and since that letter came, bringing news of his safe arrival, no tidings of the wanderer had reached his home.
For a long time Margaret hoped all might be well; and when at last the shadows darkened her spirit, she prayed for patience, and strove to conceal from her father and her children the grief which was stealing the bloom from her cheek, and giving her such long weary nights of anxiety and tears.

But the grey-haired parent saw her true feelings, and almost rejoiced to see that Margaret only trembled lest she was widowed in her youth—while the old man had learned the sadder story that the wine cup over which Harry loved to linger, was leading him down into dark paths of degradation and shame. Circumstances at length obliged him to reveal to his sorrowful child the truth, and she had gone to her chamber to search vainly in that old letter for a denial of the fact; to weep her tears of agony alone.

The young wife had sat long in her window, holding communion with her own troubled suffering spirit. She gazed—but now upon the sweet valley which lay sleeping in the moonlight; she listened, but it was not to the low soft breathings of her unconscious children; she looked up to the quiet watching stars and wildly prayed them to guide Harry Leslie back to his home—and the stars returned to poor Margaret glances of hope; she felt as though the eyes of angels were watching her in sympathy, and she was comforted.

That very night the subject of Margaret Leslie's prayers and tears was sleeping in the streets of a distant city.
Aye, in the street, with only the blue star-lit sky for a covering, with the cold grey stones of the pavement for a pillow. Oh! could that be one for whom faithful eyes had been weeping, and faithful hearts yearning with unutterable love? Alas! it was too true.
There, covered with its rags and shame, lay the wreck of a stately form, perhaps, too, the wreck of as noble a spirit. That evening he had exchanged the last article of value which he had possessed for the poisoned cup, and was midnight the wretch who tempted and destroyed him, had driven him helpless and homeless into the streets.
He tottered along slowly, sometimes falling upon the hard pavements, sometimes creeping like a foul insect, until at last exhausted and nearly insensible, he crept close to the walls of a building, which cast over his wretchedness a friendly shadow, and fell asleep.

When the inebriate awoke from his death-like slumber, he was in full possession of his senses, and he looked around him bewildered, and wondering where he was. He thought he had been sleeping for the first time in his life, with no canopy above him but the starry heavens; yet no! not for the first time, for now he remembered that once in his boyhood he had gone with the hunters over moorland and mountain, and slept on their beds of fragrant heather. But that was in his own mountain Scotland; then he was young, and pure, and free; now he was in a strange land, friendless, degraded, and enslaved. As memory led him back into the past, reason and conscience asserted their power, and all his dark life was clearly pictured before him. He could see the gradual stepping stones by which he had descended into this whirlpool of vice, he saw that he was in the very depths of misery and want—and in these lucid moments there were pale faces, which seemed to approach and look mournfully into his own. Poor Leslie!— Those pale faces made him nearly mad —oh how he hated and loathed himself! He looked wildly round upon the dark stones, to find something with which to end his wretched life, but he saw nothing; he thought of the flowing river, but he felt too weak to rise.— At length he gazed up to the stars, and they seemed to look down into his weary soul with so much compassion, that he became again calm and capable of reflection. There in the stillness and quiet of the night, with only the stars for witnesses, he promised himself to forsake strong drink forever, to seek employment and become a better man.

With the morning sunbeams, Leslie, strengthened by his good resolutions, presented himself before one whose reputation for generosity and kindness had reached, and encouraged him to apply, told his story without reserve, and begged employment. But he was destined to meet with disappointment, and all that long day did he wander in his fruitless search. Some had never known temptation, his shabby and miserable dress prejudiced others, and though he told his touching story simply, and with manly and truthful face, no heart allowed itself to pity, no hand was stretched forth to save. Poor Leslie had hoped and struggled to retrace his fearful steps, but his heart sank under his many discouragements, and he again sought to drown his misery in the intoxicating draught.

Mr. Marshall had quitted his store earlier than usual one evening, and was walking briskly homewards, when his attention was arrested by a group of boys, gathered around a drunken man, who was vainly endeavoring to protect himself from their insults, with his terrible curses. At length he fell violently upon the rough stones, and a loud laugh from his tormentors fell painfully upon the ears of the gentleman, who suddenly appeared in their midst; dispersing them alone by the dignity of his manner, and kindly offering to conduct the inebriate in safety to his home. To this kind offer, however, no answer was returned; the drunken man was evidently injured by his fall, and as Mr. Marshall's feelings forbade him to leave a fellow creature in such distress, he called a carriage and had him conveyed to his own home.

When the consciousness of the drunkard returned, he found himself in a comfortable chamber, decently dressed, and his benefactor stood at his side. No word of censure or rebuke fell from the lips of the excellent man, as he stood contemplating the change a few hours had made in the being before him, but he gently said, 'My son, I found you in trouble and have been happy in offering you a temporary shelter; you have now entirely recovered, and I will gladly send you to your friends or home.'

Only a wild look of anguish replied to his kind offer, and again he said mildly, 'My son, I pity you, and it may be I can aid you, at any rate tell me your name and your story without fear.'

Oh! how those words fell upon the ears of the stranger; the tones of the good old man's voice awakening the same feeling in his heart which the blessed glances of the stars had aroused when he struggled with himself, alone and wretched. The tears streamed down his shrunken cheeks as he informed his host that he was a foreigner with neither friends nor home. 'My name, said he, is Leslie, Harry Leslie, and sir, I have tried to shake off my fetters, to be a man once more, but no one will employ a drunkard. I am a hopeless wretch, and only wish to die unknown. God bless you sir, for your kindness, it quite overcomes me; but I hope for nothing but a grave!'

'The old man looked distressed and sorrowful and hardly knew what to do to arouse in Leslie less discouraged feelings, but at length approaching him, in a solemn and tender voice, he said—
'Harry Leslie, have you a wife or child?'

'Sir!' exclaimed the inebriate.

'I say, Leslie, have you wife or child.'

'Oh my God!' groaned the conscience smitten, 'why did I ever leave them.
Margaret! my own true wife, my golden haired Kitty, my wee Willie, and he covered his face with his hands.

'For golden haired Kitty, wee Willie, and your anxious wife—'

'Oh sir, exclaimed Leslie wildly, 'never must they know aught of my wretchedness and degradation. Better far that they should weep a husband and a father dead, than mourn him a living disgrace.'

'Leslie, do you still love that wife, those children?'

'Love them! God knows.'

'Then struggle and restore to them, and to yourself happiness. I believe firmly that you may be reclaimed. Tell me, when you last heard of your family.'

'It is a year, a long year,' and the poor man groaned.

'And you have neglected a beautiful wife your fair-haired children; you have given them sorrow and loneliness, and anxious watchings. But I seek not the augmentations of repentant tears, my young friend; if you desire to restore them and yourself to all the happiness of former years I will assist you.'

'How?'

'I will give you employment, you shall sign the temperance pledge, and keep yourself out of the way of temptation; at the end of the year you shall return to your own home.'

Think Leslie, yesterday you were a—'Brute, ejaculated the redeemed, as he fell upon his knees and hailed the old man as his father—his deliverer.

'My son' said Mr. Marshall, mastering his own deep emotion, 'I will leave you now to your own reflections, pray not to be led into temptation,' and he left him alone.

The plans of the good merchant were speedily arranged. He would employ Leslie one year, and allow him to board in his own family, thus giving him the blessing of a home. Mrs. M. entered heartily into her husband's plan, and our wanderer began his new life with a heart swelling with gratitude and repentance, and courage and hope. The thought of his home and the heart treasures it contained, cheered him in his hours of labor, and when evening came, he found by the quiet fireside of his employer comfort and peace.

Oh how he longed to send over the waters one missive, full of the breathings of his affection, and longings for forgiveness! But his benefactor had advised him to wait until the time of his trial was past, and he should be confident of success: should be certain that his reform was thorough and complete. Leslie felt the justice of his friend's remarks, and was satisfied to know that Margaret's anxiety had been relieved and that ere another summer, golden haired Kitty and wee Willie would come to dwell with him in an American home.

The year of Harry Leslie's trial is past and he is taking leave of the good old pair whose kindness has been his salvation. 'Harry,' said the old man, 'I have just arranged a little affair which you must consent to. You know my business will depend principally upon you next year, and I have a house not far from the store, which you shall have rent free if you will accept it. I am going to the wharf with you, and as we shall pass, you must stop and look at it—and then you can tell Margaret just what kind of a place she is coming to.' Harry's heart was too full for words, and wringing the old lady's hand he quitted the house which he had learned to love so dearly, and with a feeling of sadness, directed his steps toward the place of embarkation. Harry, said Mr. Marshall, here is the place,' and they entered. It was a pleasant and comfortable dwelling, and a tidy servant ushered them into the parlor. Harry looked around him. Surely that was his own portrait that adorned the wall, the door opened—his own—his own dear Margaret, wee Willie, and golden haired Kitty were in his arms!

THE TEETH.—Let a female be dressed as neat as a pin—with a fine form and a beautiful face—but if, when she opens her mouth to speak, she betrays a row of teeth that have never been attended to, we turn away as from a whited sepulchre.
Can such have sweet breath?

When we see a beautiful set of teeth, we know the lady is neat, if she is not so beautiful to look at, or so expensively dressed. We could take turns with her in biting an apple or sucking an orange.

Highly Important.

FROM THE

SEAT OF WAR.

STORMING OF MONTEREY, AND Surrender of the City.

Hasty Sketch of the Operations of the Army of Invasion before Monterey, from the 19th to the 24th of September.

By telegraphic despatch, the following highly important advices from the Seat of War, have been received, which arrived in Washington city on Sunday last, by the Southern mail, and was immediately transmitted to New York. We copy the following from the New York Herald, of Monday.

It will be seen that the American Army is again triumphant, and additional glory is added to our already victorious arms.
The intelligence is taken from the New Orleans Picayune Extra, dated Sunday morning, Oct. 4, which was received there by the steamer James L.
Day, from Point Isabel.

On the 19th, Gen. Taylor arrived before Monterey with a force of about 6000 men.

After reconnoitering the city at about 1600 or 1800 yards from the Cathedral Fort, during which time he was fired upon from its batteries, his force was encamped at the Walnut Springs, three miles short of the city.

This was the nearest position at which the army could obtain a supply of water, and beyond the enemy's batteries.

The remainder of the 19th was occupied by the engineers in making reconnoissances of the city batteries commanding the heights.

On the 20th, Gen. Worth was ordered with his division to move by a circuitous route to the right, to gain the Saltillo road, west of the town, and to storm the heights above the Bishop's Palace, which vital point appears to have been strangely neglected by the Mexican commander.

Circumstances caused his halt on the night of the 20th, short of the intended position. On the morning of the 21st instant, he continued his route, and after an encounter with a large body of the enemy's cavalry and infantry, supported by artillery from the heights, he repulsed them, with loss, and finally encamped, covering the passage of the Saltillo road.

It was here discovered, that besides the fort at the Bishop's Palace, and the occupation of the heights above it, two forts, on commanding eminences on the opposite side of the San Juan river, had been fortified and occupied.

These two latter heights were then stormed and carried, the guns of the last fort that was carried being immediately turned, with a plunging fire, upon the Bishop's Palace.

On the same morning, the 21st, the first division of regular troops, under Gen. Worth, and the volunteer division under Gen. Butler, were ordered under arms, to make a diversion to the left of the town in favor of the important operations of Gen. Worth. The 10 inch mortars and two 24 pound howitzers had been put in battery the night of the 20th on a ravine, 1400 yards distant from the cathedral fort, or citadel, and were supported by the fourth regiment of Infantry.

At 8 A. M., on the 21st, the order was given for this battery to open upon the citadel and town. And immediately after, the first division with the 3d and 4th infantry in advance, under Col. Garland, were ordered to reconnoitre and skirmish with the enemy on the extreme left of the city, and should prospect of success offer, to carry the most advanced battery.

This attack was directed by Major Mansfield, engineer; Capt. Williams, topographical engineer; and Major Kinney, Qr. Master to the Texas division.
A heavy fire from the first battery was immediately opened upon the advance, but the troops soon turned it, entering and engaging with the enemy in the streets of the city, having passed through an incessant cross fire from the citadel and the first and second batteries, and from the infantry who lined the parapets, streets and house tops of the city.

The rear of the first battery was soon turned, and the reverse fire of the troops through the gorge of the works, killed or dislodged the artillery and infantry, and the building occupied by the infantry immediately in its rear.

The first division was followed and supported by the Mississippi, Tennessee and first Ohio regiments.

The two former regiments being the first to scale and occupy the fort, the success of the day stopped.

The Mississippi, Tennessee, and Ohio regiments, though warmly engaged in the streets of the city for some time after the capture of the first battery, and its adjoining defenses, were unable, from exhaustion, and the loss they had sustained, to gain more advantage.

A heavy shower of rain also came up to cause a suspension of the hostilities before the close of the day. The 3d, 4th and 1st infantry and the Baltimore battalion remained as the garrison of the captured position, under Col. Garland assisted by the Ridgely batteries.

Two 12 pounders, one 4 pounder, and one howitzer were captured in this fort; 3 officers, and some 20 or 30 men taken prisoners. One of the 12 pounders was served against the second fort, and defended with captured ammunition during the remainder of the day by Captain Ridgely.

The storming parties of Gen. Worth's division also captured two 9 pounders, which were also immediately turned against their former owners.

On the morning of the 22d, Gen. Worth continued his operations, and portions of his division stormed and carried successfully the heights above the Bishop's Palace. Both were carried by a command under Captain Vinton, 3d Artillery.

In these operations the company of Louisiana troops, under Capt. Blanchard, performed effective and gallant service, and a part of Captain Vinton's command. Four pieces of artillery, with a good supply of ammunition, were captured in the Bishop's Palace this day, some of which were immediately turned upon the enemy's defenses in the city.

On the evening of the 22d Col. Garland and his command were relieved as the garrison of the captured forts, by Gen. Quitman, with the Mississippi and Tennessee regiments and five companies of the Kentucky regiment.

Early on the morning of the 23d, General Quitman, from his position, discovered that the 2d and 3d forts and defenses east of the city had been entirely abandoned by the enemy, who, apprehending another assault on the night of the 22d, had retired from all his defenses to the main Plaza and its immediate vicinity.

A command of two companies of Mississippi, and two of Tennessee troops, were then thrown into the streets to reconnoitre, and soon became hotly engaged with the enemy.

These were soon supported by Col. Wood's regiment of Texan rangers, dismounted; by Bragg's light battery and 3d infantry, who kept upon the enemy's fort a constant and uninterrupted fire from the streets, house tops, barricades, &c. &c., in the vicinity of the Plaza. The pieces of Bragg's battery were also used with much effect far into the heart of the city.

This engagement lasted the best part of the day. Our troops having driven the scattering parties of the enemy, and penetrated quite to the defenses of the main Plaza, the advantage thus gained, it was not considered necessary to hold, as the enemy had permanently abandoned the city and its defenses, except the main Plaza, its immediate vicinity and the cathedral fort or citadel.

Early in the afternoon of the same day General Worth assaulted from the Bishop's Palace, west side of the city, and succeeded in driving the enemy and maintaining his position within a short distance of the main Plaza, on that side of the city, towards evening.

The mortar had also been planted in the cemetery enclosure, and during the night did great execution in the circumscribed camp of the enemy in the Plaza. Thus ended the operations of the 23d.

Early on the morning of the 24th, a communication was sent to Gen. Taylor from Gen. Ampudia, under a flag, making an offer of capitulation, to which the former refused to accede, as it asked more than the American commander would under any consideration grant.

At the same time a demand to surrender was in reply made upon Gen. Ampudia, and 12 o'clock at noon was the hour at which the acceptance or non-acceptance was to be communicated to the American General.

At 11 A. M., the Mexican General sent requesting a personal conference with Gen. Taylor, which was granted, the principal officers of rank on either side accompanying their Generals.

After several offers in relation to the capitulation of the city, made on either side, and refused, at half past 4 P. M., Gen. Taylor arose, and saying he would give Gen. Ampudia one hour to consider to accept or refuse, left the conference, with his officers.

At the expiration of the hour the discharge of the mortars was to be the signal for the commencement of hostilities.

Before the expiration of the hour, however, an officer was sent on the part of Gen. Ampudia, to inform the American General that to avoid the further effusion of blood, the national honor being satisfied by the exertion of the Mexican troops, he had, after consultation with his General officers, decided to capitulate, accepting the offer of the American General.

The terms of capitulation were in effect as follows:

That the Mexican officers should be allowed to march out with their side arms; that the cavalry and infantry be allowed to march out with their arms and accoutrements; that the artillery should be allowed to march out with one battery of six pieces and 21 rounds of ammunition; that all other munitions of war and supplies should be turned over to a board of American officers appointed to receive them; that the Mexican army should be allowed seven days to evacuate the city; and that the American troops should not occupy it until evacuated; that the cathedral fort, or citadel, should be evacuated at 10 A. M. next day, 25th; the Mexicans then marching out, the American garrison marching in; that the Mexicans should be allowed to salute their flag, when hauled down; that there should be an armistice of eight weeks, during which time neither army should pass a line running from the Ranconada through Linares and San Fernando. This latest offer of the American General was dictated with the concurrence of his Generals, and by motives of good policy. This consideration was due to the good defence of their city by the Mexican army.

HEAD QUARTERS, ARMY OF OCCUPATION,
Camp before Monterey, Sept. 22, 1846.

SIR: I have the honor to report that the troops under my command, including the mounted volunteers from Texas, marched from the Marin on the 18th, and encamped before Monterey on the 19th inst. It was immediately discovered that the enemy occupied the town in force, and had added greatly to its strength by fortifying the approaches and heights. A close reconnaissance was made the same evening by the officers of engineers and topographical engineers on both flanks of the town, and it was determined, from the information procured, to occupy the Saltillo road in the rear of the town, carrying, if practicable, the several fortified eminences in that direction. The 2d division of regular troops and a portion of Col. Hays's regiment of mounted volunteers was accordingly detached under Brig. General Worth on this service, at noon on the 20th. A ten inch mortar and two 24-pounder howitzers were placed in battery during the night to play upon the citadel and town. At 7 o'clock these guns opened and continued a deliberate fire, which was returned. To create a still farther diversion in favor of Gen. Worth's movement, the remainder of the force except a camp guard, was displayed around the centre and left of the town. The infantry and one battery of the 1st division made a strong demonstration on the left, and soon became so closely engaged that I moved forward the volunteer division under Major General Butler to its support, leaving one battalion (1st Kentucky) to cover the mortar battery. A close contest then ensued, which resulted in the capture of one strong battery of four guns which with some adjacent defenses our troops now occupy. A garrison was left to hold this position, and the remainder of the force returned to camp.

In the mean time General Worth had engaged the enemy early in the morning, and defeated him with considerable loss. In the course of the day two of the batteries in rear of the town were carried by storming parties of the 2d division, and a third was carried this morning at dawn of day. The Bishop's Palace occupied the only remaining height in rear of town, and is completely commanded by the works already carried. Gen. Worth's division occupies the Saltillo road, and cuts off all succor or support from the interior. I must reserve a more minute report of the important operations of yesterday, until those of the different commanders are sketched, and also until a topographical sketch of the country can be prepared.

I regret to report that our successes have not been obtained without severe loss, to be attributed in a good measure to the order of the troops in pressing forward. No returns of killed and wounded have yet been received, nor is it known what corpse of Gen. Worth's division have suffered the most. In the other portion of the army the 1st, 3d, and 4th regiments of Infantry and regiments of Tennessee volunteers have sustained the greatest loss. The following is believed to be an accurate list of the officers killed and wounded:

KILLED.—3d Infantry—Brevet 1st Lieutenant J. S. Woods, (serving with 1st Infantry); 3d Infantry—Capt. L. N. Morris; Capt. G. P. Field; Brevet Major F. F. Barbour; 1st Lieut. and Adj. D. S. Irwin; 2d Lieut. R. H. Hallist; 4th Infantry—1st Lieut. and Adj. C. Hoskins; 5th Infantry—Captain H. McKevitt, Maryland and Washington Battalion Volunteers—Lieut. Col. W. H. Watson.

VOLUNTEER DIVISION. Ohio regiment, 1st Lieut. M. Hett. Tennessee regiment, Capt. W. B. Allen; S. M. Putnam.

WOUNDED. Corps of Engineers. Brevet Major J. K. T. Mansfield, slightly. Corps of Topographical Engineers, Captain W. G. Williams, (in hands of the enemy); 1st Infantry, Brevet Major J. L. Abernethy, slightly; Capt. J. H. Lamotte, severely; 1st Lieut. J. C. Terrell, (in hands of the enemy); 2d Lieut. R. D. Dilworth, severely; 3d Infantry, Major W. W. Lear, severely; Captain Rainbridge, slightly; 5th Infantry, 1st Lieut. R. H. Graham, severely; 6th Infantry, 1st Lieut. N. B. Russell, slightly; 7th Infantry, 2d Lieut. J. H. Potter, severely; 8th Infantry, 2d Lieut. George Wainwright, severely.

VOLUNTEER DIVISION. General Staff, Major General W. O. Butler, slightly. Ohio Regiment, Col. A. M. Mitchell, slightly; Captain James George, slightly; 1st Lieut. and Adj. A. W. Armstrong, very severely; 1st Lieut. N. Niles, severely; 1st Lieut. L. Motter, slightly; Mississippi Regiment, Lieut. Col. A. H. McClung, severely; Capt. R. N. Downing, slightly; 1st Lieut. H. F. Cook, slightly; 2d Lieut. R. K. Arthur, do.

DIVISION OF TEXAS MOUNTED VOLUNTEERS. 1st Regiment, Capt. Gillespie, mortally.

I need hardly add, that the conduct of our troops, both regulars and volunteers, throughout the operation, has been every thing that could be desired. The part which each corps contributed to the successes of the day will appear more fully in future reports. To Major Generals Butler and Henderson, and Brigdier Generals Twiggs, and Worth commanding divisions, I must express my obligations for the sufficient support which they have rendered—particularly so to Brigadier General Worth, whose services, from his detached position, have been most conspicuous.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
your obedient servant,
Z. TAYLOR, Major General,
U. S. A. Commanding.
The Adjutant General of the Army,

HEAD QUARTERS, ARMY OF OCCUPATION,
Camp before Monterey, Sept. 23, 1846.

SIR: I have the gratification to report that the Bishop's Palace was gallantly carried yesterday by the troops of the 2d Division. In the course of the night the batteries below the town were, with one exception, abandoned by the enemy, and this morning were occupied by our troops. To-day the 3d infantry with the field artillery of the 1st division, the Mississippi and Tennessee regiments, and the 2d regiment of Texas riflemen (dismounted) have been warmly engaged with the enemy in the town and have driven him with considerable loss to the plaza and its vicinity, which is yet strongly occupied. A portion of the 2d division has also advanced into the town on the right, and holds a position there. The enemy still maintains himself in the plaza and citadel, and seems determined to make a stubborn resistance.

I am particularly gratified to report that our successes of yesterday and to-day, though disastrous to the enemy, have been achieved without material loss.

I cannot speak in too high terms of the gallantry and perseverance of our troops throughout the arduous operations of the last three days.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
your obedient servant,
Z. TAYLOR, Major General,
U. S. A. Commanding.
The Adjutant General of the Army,
Washington, D. C.

Camp before Monterey, Sept. 25, 1846.

SIR: At noon on the 23d inst. while our troops were closely engaged in the city, as reported in my last despatch, I received by a flag, a communication from the Governor of the State of New Leon, which is herewith enclosed (No. 1). To this communication, I deemed it my duty to return an answer declining to allow the inhabitants to leave the city. By eleven o'clock, P. M., the 2d Division, which had entered the town from the direction of the Bishop's Palace, had advanced within one square of the principal plaza, and occupied the city up to that point. The mortar had in the mean time, been placed in battery in the Cemetery, within good range of the heart of the town, and was served throughout the night with good effect.

Early in the morning of the 24th I received a flag from the town, bearing a communication from General Ampudia, which I enclose (No. 2) and to which I returned the answer (No. 3). I also arranged with the bearer of the flag a cessation of fire until 12 o'clock, which hour I appointed to receive the final answer of Gen. Ampudia at Gen. Worth's Headquarters. Before the appointed time, however, Gen. Ampudia had signified to Gen. Worth his desire for a personal interview with me, for the purpose of making some definite arrangement. An interview was accordingly appointed for one o'clock, and resulted in the naming of a Commission to draw up articles of agreement regulating the withdrawal of the Mexican forces, and a temporary cessation of hostilities. The Commissioners named by the Mexican General-in-Chief were Generals Ortega and Requena and Don Manuel M. Liano, Governor of New Leon. Those named, on the American side were Gen. Worth, Gen. Henderson, Governor of Texas, and Col. Davis, of the Mississippi Volunteers. The Commission finally settled upon the articles, of which I enclose a copy (No. 4) the duplicates of which (in Spanish and English) have been duly signed. Agreeably to the provisions of the 4th article, our troops have this morning occupied the citadel.

It will be seen that the terms granted the Mexican garrison are less rigorous than those first imposed. The gallant defence of the town, and the fact of a recent change of Government in Mexico, believed to be favorable to the interests of peace, induced me to concur with the commission in these terms, which will, I trust, receive the approval of the Government. The latter consideration also prompted the convention for a temporary cessation of hostilities. Though scarcely warranted by my instructions, yet the change of affairs since those instructions were issued seemed to warrant this course. I beg to be advised as early as practicable, whether I have met the views of the Government in these particulars.

I regret to report that Capt. Williams, Topographical Engineer, and Lieut. Terrell, 1st Infantry, have died of the wounds received in the engagement of the 21st. Capt. Gatlin, 7th Infantry, was wounded (not badly) on the 23d.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
your obedient servant,
Z. TAYLOR, Major General,
U. S. A. Commanding.
The Adjutant General of the Army,
Washington, D. C.

[Here follows four documents, for which we have not room this week, the first is a letter from Don. Franco de P. Morales, the Governor of New Leon to Gen. Taylor, asking protection for the inhabitants of Monterey, &c.

The second is a letter from General Ampudia to General Taylor, proposing to evacuate the City, &c.

The third is a letter from Gen. Taylor to Gen. Ampudia rejecting his offer and demanding the surrender of the town and that the garrison shall be prisoners of war.

The fourth is the terms of capitulation, as agreed upon by the respective parties, which in substance, is the same as given in the New Orleans accounts.

Monterey, now in possession of Gen. Taylor, is the capital of the state of New Leon. It is on the Fernando river, about 220 miles from its mouth. It has well paved streets and mostly one story stone buildings. The population is about 12,000, and the city is situated on the main travelling route from the Rio Grande to the city of Mexico.

Judge Rice Garland writes a letter from Monterey, dated the day after the battles. He says—

"Gen. Worth has distinguished himself as a gallant soldier and a skillful commander. Gen. Taylor gave him a fair chance, and he has nobly availed himself of it. His division, with Hays' regiment of Texans, have gained more ground, and carried more points, than all the rest of the army, and with very little loss. Up to yesterday at 9 A. M. it was 5 killed and 25 wounded."

Firing of the Mammoth Mortar Cannon.—The great gun, lately cast at Alger's foundry, and described in the Post, was fired a few times at South Boston Point, yesterday afternoon. Shells, 12 inches in diameter, and 180 pounds in weight, were thrown various distances, according to the charge, elevation, and length of fuse used. With a charge of 20 pounds of powder, 20 seconds fuse, at an elevation of 22 degrees, a shell thrown 2 1/2 miles, and buried deep in the earth at Squantum. A ricochet shot was tried with a 10 seconds fuse, 20 pounds powder charge, and 7 pounds in the shell. It dashed through and over the water at an awful rate, and exploded at a distance of about two miles in the water, throwing the fragments several hundred yards in every direction. Next week the gun will be tried with higher charges of powder. The regular service charge is 25 pounds, which, at a due elevation, will project the shell somewhere between 3 1/2 and 4 miles.

Thus far all the previous calculations of the powers of the gun have been verified by the experiments. The firing was under the direction of Col. Balford, the inventor of this tremendously formidable species of ordnance, intended for harbor defence.—Boston Post.

DEATH OF MR. HOYT.—Mr. Hoyt, who was shot on Monday week, as alleged, by Mr. Wm. R. Myers, breathed his last yesterday evening, about half past seven o'clock. Since Wednesday evening last he has been in a state of insensibility. He continued to the last moment of consciousness to assert his innocence of the act with which he has been charged, and in regard to which circumstances were so strong against him. This denial was made under circumstances of the most imposing character—first, under oath, to a magistrate, and subsequently to two clergymen, to both of whom he expressed his contrition, and his strong anxiety to be prepared for the change that he was sensible awaited him. The current rumor that Mr. Hoyt had bequeathed $30,000 to the lady with whose name his own had been so unfortunately associated, is not true.—Richmond Whig of Saturday.

The Richmond Murder.—Five columns of Monday's Richmond Republican are filled with a report of the inquest held upon the body of Mr. Hoyt. No facts of consequence were disclosed in addition to those already published in substance.

The jury returned a verdict of murder against W. R. Myers, and charged S. S. Myers and W. S. Burr as accessories.

A warrant was then issued for their arrest, they being at large on bail ($30,000,) but the Republican was not advised of their arrest.—N. Y. Com. Adc.

HARPER, THE MURDERER.—We have already announced the apprehension of Harper, charged with the murder of Mr. Meredith, of Baltimore. He is confined at Van Buren, Arkansas, waiting for an official requisition from the Governor of Missouri. The Lexington (Mo.) Express having occasion to allude to the matter, lets us into the secret of the manner of his escape. His trial was a month off. He was securely guarded, but the dictates of humanity prompted his guard to allow his wife to visit him. Woman's ingenuity suggested to her the means of effecting his escape. Hanging some of her clothes against the wall knowing they would not be touched, she contrived to work out the mortar and bricks therefrom, carrying them out daily concealed about her person. None ever thought of examining her, and she worked away at her task of love unmolested. The result was the escape of her husband.—St. Louis Rep.

A young lady recently appeared in the Kensington gardens, London, to whose dress some wag had attached the following label: "No reasonable offer will be refused."

REVIVAL INTELLIGENCE.—The Presbyterian Herald, Louisville, Ky., reports a religious awakening in Newbern, Alabama.

The Green Mountain Freeman also states that a most interesting revival of religion has for several weeks been in progress in the congregational church in East Berkshire, Vt.

A Baltimore Journal says:—An extraordinary religious revival has taken place in the Methodist Episcopal churches in this city during the past few weeks; upwards of two thousand have been added to their members.

CONJUGAL AFFECTION.—A man by the name of Hamlin, of Vevay, Ia., who was in the habit of abusing his wife, was warned by somebody to leave the place in due time. This he did not heed. Mr. Somebody and somebody's friends went to the house of said Hamlin and rode him on a rail to the river, where they put him in a skiff and transported him to the Kentucky side, gave him a dollar, and ordered him to leave. His wife the next day followed him, notwithstanding his ill treatment to her was so outrageous, as to awaken the indignation of the community.—Louisville Democrat.

Ripe Strawberries, in October.—A correspondent from Sudbury says "The present year is remarkable not only for large fruit, and fruit in great abundance, but also for fruit out of season; as appears from the fact that strawberries are now to be found in the meadows, from the blossom to the half grown and perfectly mature state. The writer of this has now several clusters of them at his house, as ripe and fragrant as in July."

Massachusetts Ploughman.

Two persons, answering to the names of John K. Townsend and Alfred Kershaw, were arrested Friday morning by virtue of a breach warrant issued by the Court of General Sessions, upon an indictment charging them with having conspired to defraud the public by means of a pretended insurance company, alleged to have been formed under the title of "The New York Fire, Marine and Inland State Stock Insurance Company," the office of which was located at No. 20 Wall street, and of which the first of the before named persons was the reputed President, and Kershaw the Actuary.

In their advertisement they inserted the names of twenty-five persons as Directors of this mock corporation, and professed to have a capital of $500,000 when in fact, as it is alleged, the Directors were men of straw, or in other words without capital or act of incorporation. It is believed that numerous persons have been taken in by this concern, and that many curious financial operations will be brought to light during the progress of the trial. The accused parties were each held to bail in the sum of $5000, which they gave, and were discharged.—New York Tribune.

A Serious Fire at Waldoboro', Me.—We learn that a disastrous conflagration visited that town on Saturday last, the 10th inst. The fire broke out about 2 o'clock, P. M., in the barn of Andrew Sides, which was set on fire by some boys, and before the flames could be subdued, sixteen stores, four lawyers' and three doctors' offices, and ten dwellings were destroyed. The Medomak Bank building, the Post Office and the Free Masons and Odd Fellows Hall were all burnt. The Bank property and the contents of the Post Office were saved. The fire was subdued at 7 P. M., after raging with great fury for five hours. The goods in the stores were mostly saved in a damaged state, and the furniture was also nearly all safely removed. The loss is stated at $40,000. There was very little insurance on the buildings.

Melancholy Bereavement.—Among the officers killed at Monterey was Capt. Field, of the U. S. Army. His lady was on a visit to this city, residing at the house of Asst. Ald. Oliver, anxiously expecting letters from her husband. The first intelligence that reached her, after her arrival here, was his death. Mrs. F. is the daughter of the late Colonel Vose, a gallant officer who was with the army on the Rio Grande, and whose death also she was called to mourn a short time since. Thus has she to lament the loss of a beloved father and of a husband in whom her very life seemed wrapped.—Sorrow sufficient for one, at least, to be called to bear.

N. Y. Express.

Most Melancholy Casualty.—Death of Three Young Ladies.—On Friday afternoon, 2d inst., three young girls, Miss Kepperling, Miss Bare, and Miss Baker, were drowned in Mr. Jacob Ott's Spring-house, about one mile from Lewistown, Pa. They had gone to the Spring-house for the purpose of securing the milk and other articles in it, from being flooded, there being indications of a heavy storm of rain. While in the Spring-house the rain poured down in torrents, filling the lower story instantly, and covering the floor of the loft to the depth of some two feet, the torrent rushing in at the door and rendering their escape impossible. Their bodies were extricated by some persons who hurried to their assistance, but too late to save their lives.

Mr. Samuel Driver, of Bethany, a very worthy farmer, about seventy years of age, while driving his team home with a load of pumpkins, last evening, stepped upon a rolling stone, which threw him down, and the wheel of his cart passed over his breast, killing him instantly. New Haven Register of Saturday.

THEFT.—Saturday, about one o'clock, a rogue entered the store of Messrs. Batchelder & Mann, State street, while the book keeper was at dinner, and took a pocket book, containing about thirty-five dollars, from the drawer, and made his escape. The thief met Mr. Mann in the front part of the store, and inquired if Mr. Reed kept there. Appearing rather anxious, Mr. Mann's suspicions were excited, but not in season to secure the rogue. Three minutes before, Messrs. B. & M. had deposited 1700 dollars in the Bank.—Boston Transcript.

SHIPWRECK AND LOSS OF LIFE.—The Whaling brig Rienzi, Small, of Boston, 5 mos. out from Provincetown, with 470 blbs. of oil on board, was wrecked at sea on the 15th ultimo. Capt. Small and fifteen of the crew were lost—the remainder of the crew, five in number, were taken off the wreck on the 26th ult. by the ship Minerva, Brown, from Palermo, for New York, and arrived on Friday last.

Loss of another Whaling Brig, and Three Lives.—The Clement at Boston from Charleston, fell in with 9th inst., lat 33 22, long 72 35, brig Maracabo, of Plymouth, and took off Capt. Colman and eighteen of the crew. The M. sailed from Plymouth 12th ult. on a whaling cruise; on 19th, lat 35, long 63, during a heavy gale from SSE, she was thrown on her beam ends. She was then got round before the wind and scudded under foretopmast staysail. The vessel was then lightened by throwing over tryworks, line tubs, &c., and the boats were cut away. At 4 o'clock P. M. a sea broke over the stern, knocking her down and washing overboard William Tripp of Tiverton, 2d officer, and David Silvio of Fayal, seaman.—Geo. S. Ellis, a seaman, was drowned at the same time in the fore-castle. The brig remained on her beam ends about 20 minutes, when her masts went by the board, and she righted full of water. All hands then lashed themselves to the wreck, and remained in that position 90 hours, their only subsistence being a barrel of Sugar that was wet with salt water. On the 23d the weather moderated they batted down the main hatch, and on the 24th rigged jury masts, and hove over provisions, wood and water to lighten the brig.—On the 25th, spoke ship Newton, of and from New Bedford for the Pacific, by which they were supplied with spars, rigging and a quadrant, giving in return some beef and a tow-line—all their nautical instruments, &c. having been destroyed. On the 28th, lat 39, long 63 30, they experienced another gale, which carried away their fore jury mast, which, however, was got up again the same day, and sail made. On the 29th and 30th they experienced heavy gales, but from that time to the 9th inst. the wind was variable.

MILITARY.—Troops for Tampico.—Two companies of the U. S. 4th Artillery, stationed at Fortress Monroe, and a company of recruits, about 250 in all are expected to sail to-day. Destination supposed to be Tampico. The accounts from Washington are that 1000 regulars and 4000 volunteers under command of Gen. Patterson, are to be landed by the Gulf Squadron at Tampico and are to commence the invasion of Mexico from that point of the Gulf coast.—Norfolk Beacon.

The Winnebagos.—We understand that a treaty was concluded at a late hour this day with the Winnebago delegation, by which they cede their lands in Iowa to the government of the United States. The precise terms of the arrangement have not reached us; and, indeed, treaties are generally secret documents until they have been ratified. The Winnebagos will have a formal audience with their Great Father, the President of the United States, before they leave the city.

Union, Tuesday night.

The Bangor Mercury states that there is now living in that city a female who is 100 years of age, and that she was born in Newbern, (N. C.) in 1742, and quite active, walking to church regularly on the Sabbath.

WINTER IS COMING.—The Indian Summer is pleasant in October—but the cold nights which we have lately experienced, admonish us that winter will soon be upon us—and the following short chapter of advice from the Buffalo Express, is not only seasonable but to the point:

"We are admonished by the lowering sky—the chilling winds—the frosty nights—the pattering rain—the mud-cold fingers, and sundry other mistakeable signs, that winter is at hand—and we should prepare to give him a warm reception. Brush up your old stoves—look up the pipes—examine your flues—and order a wood pile. Put on thick boots and keep your feet dry—flannels to keep the cold out—and never leave home without an umbrella. Winter is coming, with his hail, sleet and snow. Call for the glazier—have every broken pane made whole, or the hole will let in the cold. Caulk up every crevice and cranny, for old December blows terrible cold, and is ever in search of some forgotten seam through which to puff his frosty breath. He'll nip the budding plants that have been reared with so much tender care, to break the gloom of winter by their foliage and flowers, unless he is kept without the casement. Prepare for winter before it comes upon you, and the mastery is surely yours."

State Elections.
VERMONT.—The official vote for Governor in this State, as declared by the Legislature, is as follows:
Horace Eaton, (W.) 23,644
John Smith, (Dem.) 18,059
L. B. Grinnard, (Ab.) 7,163
Scattering, 362

There being no choice by the people the Legislature has elected the Whig candidates for Governor and other State officers.

MAINE.—In this State which party is to obtain the majority, will probably remain in doubt until the meeting of the Legislature.—The House now stands 54 Whigs; 52 Democrats; no choice 41; four to be heard from.

MARYLAND.—In this State the Whigs have elected a large majority in both branches of the Legislature.—The Senate consists of 13 Whigs and 8 Democrats and the House of Delegates of 53 Whigs and 29 Democrats—majority on joint ballot 29.

GEORGIA.—Whig members of Congress are elected in the 1st 7th and 8th districts, and Democrats in the 4th, 5th and 6th districts. The 2d and 3d districts are yet undecided.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The election for Members of Congress, Legislature and one Canal Commissioner, took place on Tuesday last. The Whigs claim to have gained as far as heard from, 4 Members of Congress, 3 State Senators and 8 Members of the Legislature, and expect to elect the Canal Commissioner.

The severe gale which was experienced here on Tuesday evening, appears to have been felt in every direction, the papers of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, are filled with the details of damage to buildings and shipping.

The steamship Great Britain, due at New York, had not arrived Tuesday evening. She had been out 28 days, if she sailed as advertised.

We are indebted to Messrs. C. N. and B. J. Tilley, for N. York papers; also to S. Hammett, for Boston papers, in advance of the mail.

The Union publishes the official dispatches of General Taylor, communicating the result of the battles before Monterey. It prefaces them with some editorial remarks, in which it says that a messenger will be immediately dispatched to Gen. Taylor, with orders to terminate the armistice. The Union says:

At all events there can, as we conceive, be no doubt whatever, that an armistice which was thus agreed to by General Taylor, subject to the orders of the two governments, should be at once terminated.

NAVAL.—U. S. brig Perry was at Key West 27th ult., bound on a cruise for privateers, in company with revenue cutter Morris.

John Wood, Esq., cashier of the Bank of Rome, N. Y., left that place about the middle of last month, for New York and New England, for the benefit of his health. He left this city the 18th September, in the steamer Massachusetts, for Newport, R. I. Since that time nothing has been heard from him. His trunk arrived safely at the latter place, and his friends think he must have fallen overboard in crossing the Sound.—They offer a reward for the recovery of the body, or any information that may lead to it.

Mr Wood has been Cashier of the Bank of Rome for the last ten years.—He has discharged his duties with integrity and ability. He was in easy circumstances, of irreproachable character, and universally esteemed as a man of sterling honesty, purity of motive, and a Christian. He leaves a wife, two children, and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.—New York Jour. of Com.

[Mr. Wood was a native of this town and the son of the late Capt John Wood. There can be no doubt that he was lost overboard during the passage.]

INDIA RUBBER CAMELS.—An experiment was made at East Boston this forenoon, by Capt. S. W. Taylor, the inventor of the submarine armor, in order to exhibit the power of his "rubber camels." These camels consist of india rubber bags, strongly enclosed in canvas, and are intended to be used for the purpose of raising sunken vessels. Each bag will hold, when inflated, about two hundred and eighty square feet of air. They are inflated, after being placed in a proper position, by air pumps worked by steam. The hose through which the air is conveyed to the bags, is of India Rubber.—From the result of the experiment, to day on a loaded ballast lighter, we are led to believe that these "camels" will prove valuable for the purpose for which they were intended.—[Boston Journal.]

Boston Fire Department.—By the annual report of the chief engineer, it appears that the fire department of this city is composed of seven engineers and 425 members. It has fifteen engines in addition to four which are in charge of volunteer companies, and three which are not in use. The fifteen engines have 12,478 feet of leading and 499 feet of suction hose, and well supplied with hose carriages, ladders, hooks, axes, buckets, and other requisite apparatus. There are now in the city 123 reservoirs and 29 fire plugs. During the last year there have been 66 fire alarms out of the city and 233 in the city. The amount of property in the city destroyed by fire during the year is $226,338. Of this $155,205 was insured.—Boston Post.

HORRIBLE.—A dreadful affair occurred in our city yesterday morning about 10 o'clock. A man of worthless character, named John G. Cook, entered the house No. 301 South Front street, and after deliberately murdering a woman, named Mary Lee, cut out her own bowels.—The murdered woman, who was still young, had for several years been the wife of the murderer, by whom she had five or six children. She had borne his ill treatment, and lived in constant dread of her life almost from the day of her marriage. A year or two ago he married another woman, but continued at intervals to live with his first wife. About six months ago the latter left him entirely and married a man by the name of Leo. A few weeks since a sister of the deceased had Cook arrested and put in prison for threatening her life. A day or two ago he came out of jail.

Yesterday morning, finding that Lee had gone to Baltimore in one of the steamboats in which he is employed, he contrived to enter the house and go up into Mrs. Lee's apartment unobserved. Here, in the presence of her two young children, he stabbed her in the breast with a large butcher's knife, entirely severing one of the large blood vessels. The woman either fell or was pushed down stairs to the second story landing. It was here that the landlady of the house, attracted by her groans, first found her. She was unable to speak, and died in ten minutes.

The murderer attempted to escape, but finding that he could not, drew the knife across his abdomen and let out his bowels, a portion of which he cut off and dashed against a closet door in the room. His wounds were sewed up by Dr. Sharpe, and he was taken on a litter to the hospital, where he expired. When the room in which the horrid tragedy was committed was entered, the two children we have spoken of were found standing in the floor, covered from head to foot with the blood of their unhappy and guilty parents.—Philadelphia American.

A Fourierite Association at New Harmony was a few days since the locality of a discordant scene, says the Boston Transcript, and the fanatic who reside there were thrown into great consternation. A woman of Conservative principles, whose husband had joined the Community, and had invested their mutual savings of £400 in the concern, appeared amongst them surrounded by a stout body guard of her neighbors, demanding her husband, and threatening to duck the principal in a horse pond if her demand was not granted! She came off triumphant, her husband being handed over to her. She next raised a cry for the money, and compelled them to give it to her, which she soon invested in a firm bank.

WATER CURE.—The Northampton Courier says that Mr. Samuel Whitmarsh is about negotiating for the Round Hill property, formerly belonging to the school, and proposes to fit up the buildings immediately for a Cold Water Establishment. A more delightful and eligible spot could not be found in New England. It is also reported that a physician recently a resident in Northampton is to take charge of it.

It is said that an Anti Slavery paper is to be started in Washington, shortly.

FIVE MEN HUNG IN FLORIDA.—During the past summer the States of Alabama, Georgia and Florida were infested with a gang of kidnappers, horse thieves and mail depredators, who for a long time eluded the most persevering vigilance of their pursuers. Alvin Flowers, supposed to be the principal, while on his flight from Georgia, robbed the U. S. mail near Quincy, Florida. He was arrested on the 9th of August, as announced in our paper at the time, and confined in the jail of that place. The father-in-law of Flowers, with a view to prevent the driver of the mail, who was the only witness, from testifying against him, waylaid and shot the driver, while on his box, a night or two subsequent to the arrest of Flowers. Fortunately there was a passenger inside who drove the wounded man into Quincy, where he died soon after his arrival. Immediately measures were taken for the arrest of the murderer, and he and a number of his accomplices were captured.

By a private letter received yesterday, we learn that a special Court was called at Quincy, which resulted in the conviction of the principal and five accomplices as accessories to the murder.—They were all condemned to be hung on Friday last, and from the excitement and feeling which existed in that community, there is no doubt the sentence was carried into effect.—Baltimore Sun.

Cholera, Summer Complaint, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, and all other Derangements of the STOMACH and BOWELS, cured by Dr. D. Jayne's Cathartic Balm.
New York, 8th month 1st, 1838.

Friend Dr. JAYNE.—It gives me much pleasure to inform thee of the result of a case in which I administered thy Cathartic Balm, and I consider it to be a matter of duty due thee and the public, to give the following statement. Being called to visit a patient a few days since, I found he was vomiting and purging most violently, with severe Tremors and Cramps in the upper and lower extremities, and also in the abdominal parities. The Cramp was so violent that it took four men to rub him incessantly, to keep down the spasms, and to use his own words, he said it seemed to him as if his bones would snap in two.—There were also violent choleric pains around the umbilical region, attended with very distressing nausea. In short I considered it to be a case of genuine cholera. I found on inquiry, the patient had been unwell the day previous, with a looseness of the bowels. That six hours before I saw him, he was seized with the complaint, and had gradually got worse.—The extremities were cold, and he was nearly pulseless. I immediately gave him a spoonful of thy Balm, which in a few moments was ejected from the stomach, but on giving it a few times, the stomach became settled, and he expressed himself much relieved. I then gave him a calomel and opium powder. In two hours from the time I saw him he felt quite easy, and fell asleep, and slept well for five hours; but on waking, the symptoms again returned. I directed more of the Balm to be given him, when the disease subsided, and the patient was convalescent. It took only one bottle to effect a cure. I have also so often witnessed the beneficial effects of the Cathartic Balm in Summer Complaints and Diarrhoea, that I would not be without it for its weight in Silver.

I remain thy friend,
THOMAS MOTT, M. D.

IF We make the following extract from a letter to the proprietor of the Dandelion and Tomato Panacea:—
"I have tried several prescribed remedies for my occasional attacks of Dyspepsia and consequent Debility, and suffering of all the painful and unpleasant symptoms that follow in its train, the whole being principally caused by the Fever and Ague. I have found no remedy that will compare with your Panacea, and several of my friends for whom I have procured it of your agent here, concur with me in opinion respecting its merits."
(Signed) Yours truly,
J. S. KELLY, Brighton.

This testimonial is but a solitary instance from many hundreds, of the efficacy of this Panacea in all cases where a purifier of the blood is required, and is unequalled for any of the complaints incidental to this season of the year.

In Cambridge, Mass., on Sunday evening last, Thomas Breece, Esq., Purser U. S. N., He lived respected and beloved, and died lamented, by all who knew him.
Mr Breece was born in Newport, R. I. In early life he left Newport attached to the personal staff of Commodore Perry; he was in the combat on Lake Erie, with his friend and commander, and assisted in discharging the last gun, which was fired on board the Lawrence. Shortly after he received a commission as purser, and has been since uninterruptedly employed; how the duties assigned him were performed, the friendship while he lived, and grief at his death, of officers of all grades in the service, bear ample testimony. A protracted and distressing disease of the heart, was supported with the fortitude of a man, and the resignation of a Christian.

Double and Single Action

HARPS.

J. F. BROWNE,

MAKER and IMPORTER OF

IMPROVED PATENT DOUBLE ACTION

HARPS,

Invites the attention of his friends, the elite of musical taste, and admirers of this delightful instrument, to the very elegant collection he has completed, and for sale at his Warerooms, 281 Broadway, corner of Chambers street, New York, comprising some of the most splendidly finished Harps he has yet offered to their notice; as also of the plain and less ornamental description.

These harps are constructed on the most approved principals, with all the modern improvements of London and Paris. In touch and tone it is believed unequalled.—Special care is taken to fit them for the extremes of climate in this country. The opinions of the first Musical Talent is respectfully submitted.

Mr Browne's Harps are by far the most magnificent we ever saw. Through his perfect knowledge of the instrument, he has effected many important improvements in the mechanical department, and in the tone there is an extraordinary addition of sweetness, purity and power. The pillars are elaborately and gorgeously carved and gilded, while the frames are elegantly shaped and finished.

"The Harp as an instrument is but little known in this country although in Europe, it is considered as a necessary accomplishment to ladies of refined education. Every person should, for many reasons, be a little familiar with this truly drawing-room instrument. In the first place it is a capital exercise, bringing the muscles into gentle and healthful play. In the next place it is an excellent accompaniment to the voice, is easy of acquirement for all amateur enjoyment; and lastly it displays the beautiful and graceful proportions of nature's handicraft, to the greatest advantage."

Critique from Southern Periodicals.

J. F. B. would be happy to forward a list of prices and descriptions with an engraving per single postage. Harps repaired. Strings, Music, &c.
